RECYCLING

Long Hot Summer!

Last week was distinctly quiet as the shortage of tonnage availability is now clearly evident. This lack of new vessels entering the market may be a welcome stance in this holiday season as local fundamentals in the Indian sub. Continent remains unstable. Rates from India continue to weaken, and thus sentiment too, and the general opinion is that this market could remain subdued for the next couple of months but many are optimistic that this position could be reversed in the last quarter. Pakistan remains uncertain at this current time too due to their recent election results and in addition, the impact being caused locally by the continuing wait to cut the tankers now lying on the yards. Bangladesh seems to be the only 'open' market at this precise moment with positive inquiry emanating from the waterfront.
